A GREAT RUSH FOR FIRST PAPERS

At the Opening of Naturalization Court—Scores Impatient at Delay Went Away

There was a grand rush for the first papers in the naturalization process at the session which was resumed in the office of the clerk of courts on the second floor of the court house in Gorham street, and the clerk and his assistant were kept extremely busy through the day. The session for those qualified for second papers was completed yesterday and the first papers or declaration of intention to become a citizen were opened immediately.

Many different languages were heard spoken among the multitude of applicants who thronged the corridor and filled the two offices set aside for the filling out of the necessary blanks. At 5 o'clock this morning there were very many in waiting and the number increased rapidly until at noontime the corridor was filled. All wandered about talking with one another and holding impromptu consultations regarding their application blanks.

Each time the clerk's assistant emerged from the office he was surrounded by an excited crowd of prospective citizens, each of whom had numerous inquiries and everybody propounded their questions at once. All were curious to know how long they had to wait and the faces of the later arrivals took on discouraged looks when they saw the number of names ahead of them on the clerk's list.

The applicants are required to fill out blanks, giving a description of their personal appearance, stating name, age, parentage, nationality, date of coming to this country, etc., and two rooms with tables and the necessary pen and ink were set aside for this purpose. Scores of applicants got impatient at the delay and went away.

GOV. FOSS VETOES THE WASHBURN R.R. BILL

BOSTON, June 12.—Governor Foss vetoed today the so-called Washburn railroad bill which extended the credit of Massachusetts railroads and increased the size and powers of the railroad commission.

British Airship Wrecked

FAIRHOLLOUGH, Eng., June 12.—The British airship Astra Torres met with a serious accident at its first trial here today. The envelope sprang a leak and part of the framework buckled. The crew, however, managed to bring the airship safely to earth and none of them was injured.

The trial took place in the presence of thousands of spectators.

$38,000,000 Worth of Stock

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 12.—Attorneys for the Union Pacific presented at the opening of the merger dissolution hearing today a new plan for the disposition of $38,000,000 worth of Southern Pacific stock to the Pennsylvania railroad in exchange for $21,000,000 worth of Baltimore & Ohio stock.

It is understood that as a result of a difference in regard to wages between the employees and employers at the Illinois Electric Co., that four of the wood-turners left their work this morning. The men are employed at No. 3 mill with several other wood turners and when their demands were not granted they walked out. The difference in wages was about $1 per week and other men were hired to do their work, the officials say.

CASE NOT PROCEEDED MAY NOT PRESS MURDER CHARGE

Case Against Collins, Other Defendant in the Dynamite Case, Was Placed on File

BOSTON, June 12.—Frederick E. Atteaux, the dye manufacturer who was a co-defendant of President William M. Wood of the American Woolen Co. in the dynamite planting case, will not be tried a second time. District Attorney Pelletier today not pressed the case against Atteaux and placed on file the case of Dennis J. Collins, the third defendant who turned state's evidence.

ANOTHER CASE OF SMALLPOX

General Vaccination May be Ordered Throughout the City—Several Schools Have Been Exposed

Another case of smallpox was reported at the office of the board of health yesterday afternoon and if Dr. Frank McAvinue's investigation goes to show that the present smallpox situation is more than local, a general vaccination, covering the whole city, will be ordered and from present indications it would look as if we would have to bare arms for the fray.

The latest case reported was that of Cordelia Blanchard. Her home is at 62 Carolyn street. She is 42 years old and has a husband and four children. She has been removed to the smallpox hospital in Chelmsford street.

Mrs. Blanchard was taken sick June 1 and did not have a doctor until yesterday afternoon. Dr. Bellemare, who is doing special vaccination work for the board of health, was called in. He found the woman had smallpox and that it had reached almost the turning point. He reported the matter to the board of health and Dr. Livingston, the local smallpox expert, was communicated with. Dr. Livingston said it was smallpox and very pronounced.

Getting the Story

This morning Dr. McAvinue set about to get the story of the case and the board was very much interested in what information the doctor had succeeded in corraling. First of all he found that two of the children had been sick and he was satisfied that they had had smallpox. One of the children went to St. Joseph's school while he was sick and the fact that he was not too sick to go to school was very good evidence. Dr. McAvinue stated that the case was a very mild one. The father of the family is a carpenter and has been working in Ayer, going back and forth on the electric cars. Agent Bates will give this information to the Ayer authorities in order that they may take the necessary precautions at that end. Only one in the family, a boy, 15 years old, had ever been vaccinated. All of the family would have been sent to the smallpox hospital but for the fact that there isn't room for them. The Blanchard home has been quarantined.

School Vaccination

Vaccination was begun today in St. Joseph's college, St. Louis school, and the annex to St. Joseph's convent. At the meeting of the board of health this forenoon Agent Bates was instructed to employ as many doctors as are necessary to properly care for the work of vaccination and it was also agreed that should any signs of the disease show itself in any of the public schools that a general school vaccination be made at once.

Dr. Brunelle suggested that it might be a very good thing to order a general vaccination. "It has been twelve or fifteen years since there has been a general vaccination in this city," he said, "and it looks as if present conditions might warrant a general vaccination at this time."

State Inspector Present

for the state board of health, was present at the meeting and allowed that Dr. Brunelle's suggestion was a very good one. He thought, however, that it might be well to wait the result of Dr. McAvinue's investigation, which will be very thorough.

Cases Are Linked

Dr. McAvinue believes that the case, sent to the hospital months ago, the case reported two days ago and the case reported yesterday, are linked and because of the fact that schools have been exposed, and people with smallpox have been going from house to house, there is nothing for the board to expect but that other cases will be reported. In fact the board is of the opinion that there have been cases of smallpox in the city within the last month or two that were not reported to the board.

Hospital Badly Needed

The present situation but emphasizes the great need of a contagious hospital in this city, but when the question was recently approached by the mayor at a meeting of the municipal council, there was nothing doing. The mayor asked for suggestions, but many a word did his brother members have to offer. The mayor allows that it takes more than one member of the municipal council to select a site and build a hospital, and the board of health is at its wit's end as to what it will do with smallpox patients, provided other cases should put in an appearance.

MAY NOT PRESS MURDER CHARGE

Pingrees of Lowell and Herman, Strike Leaders, Arraigned at Ipswich Today

IPSWICH, June 12.—The belief was freely expressed today that the charge of murder made against three leaders of the Industrial Workers of the World as a result of the rioting at the Ipswich hosiery mill during which Miss Nicoletta Paudelopoulou was killed, would not be pressed because of the lack of evidence against the accused.

Medical Examiner's Opinion

The medical examiner's opinion that the woman was shot in the front of the skull tends to confirm in the opinion of some of those interested in the case that she was killed by a bullet from a policeman's revolver and was not the victim of a shot fired from a second story window or other point occupied by sympathizers with the strike.

District Attorney Atwill, who prosecuted the Elton case growing out of the Lawrence strike, will not proceed on the present charge, it is thought unless there is strong evidence to justify such a course.

Pingrees in Court

The three defendants, Nathan Herman, Carroll L. Pingree and the latter's wife appeared in court today and their cases were put over for a week. Thomas J. Halliday, national secretary of the textile branch of the I. W. O. did not appear to answer the charge of having violated a town ordinance. His bond of $100 was ordered forfeited and a warrant for his arrest was issued.

Testimony that the strikers were the aggressors in the fight with the police

Tuesday night was given in the district court today by Charles Hull, chairman of the board of selectmen.

19 Strikers Arraigned

Appearing as a witness against 19 strikers accused of rioting, Mr. Hull described the events of Tuesday night. About 200 strikers, he said, acting apparently in concert, marched towards the Ipswich hosiery mills, elbowing the working employees and pushing them into the gutter. The pickets were ordered by the police to move to the opposite side of the street. Soon after, stones and bottles were thrown, many of them from the windows of nearby tenement houses. Fighting then became general, he said.

The witness said he saw one of the crowd throw a stone at a policeman. The officer started in pursuit, but stumbled and as he fell he was shot at by the man whom he had pursued. Mr. Hull said he could not recognize any of the defendants as among those participating in the riot.

THREATENED DISTURBANCE DID NOT MATERIALIZE—400

RETURN TO WORK

IPSWICH, June 12.—The threatened disturbances among the mill workers here did not materialize after the one day hour today. About 400 employees resumed their work without interference, while 700 others remained on strike to enforce a 20 per cent wage increase.

ANOTHER RAILROAD CASE ON

Verdict for Defendant in Case of Lyons vs. Elevated—Man Seeks Damages for Loss of Thumb

This morning the case of Felix Albert vs. C. H. Hanson company was called for a period while the clerk called another case to be opened so that the jury might depart to take a view. The new case was that of James Percy vs. Boston and Maine railroad. Plaintiff states in his declaration that on the seventh day of November, 1912, he was lawfully on the premises of the North Packing and Provision company on Medford street in Somerville on his way to his home, and that while he was in the exercise of due care, a freight car, through the negligence of the company, its agents and servants, struck him and ran over him, injuring him so severely that one leg had to be amputated. He stated that the car was carelessly operated and that the accident was through the fault of the agents of the company.

The answer submitted by the defense in the case is a denial of each and every material allegation contained in the declaration of the plaintiff. Messrs. Coakley and Sherman appear representing the plaintiff while the case of the defense is upheld by Attorneys Trull and Wier.

Lawyer Sherman opened this morning with an explanation of the case to the jury, illustrating his remarks by means of plans and drawings, and afterwards the jurors were taken to Somerville to take a view of the scene of the accident. The remaining jurors with the exception of those in the Albert vs. Hanson case, were excused until tomorrow morning.

The case of Albert vs. Hanson was then resumed, being an action to recover damages for the alleged conversion of a horse by the defendant. Quaker and Rogers appeared for the plaintiff with Attorney J. P. Owens and Attorney Benjamin J. Maloney for the defense. The case had been in progress but a few moments yesterday afternoon when the court was adjourned and it proceeded this morning until the defense raised the contention that the plaintiff had no grounds for alleging conversion of the horse. While the point of law was being argued, the jury was dismissed from the court room and Judge Pratt decided in favor of the plaintiff. The case was soon completed as far as the evidence was concerned and Mr. Owens then began the argument for the defense.

Verdict For Defendant

After deliberating for approximately one-half hour, the jury in the case of Lyons vs. Boston Elevated, a case on trial at the superior civil court for more than a week, returned a verdict in favor of the defendant company. This was the second trial in the case; the previous verdict for the defense having been set aside by Judge Fox on motion of plaintiff's attorneys on grounds of the discovery of new evidence.

The next case called was that of Felix Albert vs. C. H. Hanson company to recover for the alleged conversion of a horse.

BOY BEGINS LIFE TERM FALL IN B. & M. STOCK BULGARIA AND SERVIA

For Murder of Woman and Two Babies

AURORA, Ill., June 12.—A boy in knee pants, who looked like the average run of boys of 12 or 13 years of age and wearing the embarrassed grin of the lad who has been called in front of a "speaking his piece for company," stopped in Aurora today on his way to the Joliet penitentiary, where just after 10 o'clock he began a life term for the recent murder of a woman and two babies.

The boy was Herman Korpes, 14 years old, who last April shot and killed Mrs. Minnie Sleep at her farm home in East Plateau, near Elgin, and brained her two children, a boy of two and a girl of four years. He is the youngest "Hirer" who has ever entered the state prison.

Reached a New Low Record Today

BOSTON, June 12.—Coincident with the decline in New Haven shares in Boston & New York there was another sharp fall in Boston & Maine, which reached 59, a new low record, shortly after noon.

The fall in Boston & Maine was attributed to the passing of the dividend on Tuesday, news of which was slow in reaching holders in obscure New England hamlets where the greater part of the stock is held.

A report by the interstate commerce commission on the recent investigation of the New Haven and the Boston & Maine is anticipated within a short time.

Urged To Accept Offer of Arbitration

LONDON, June 12.—Sir Edward Grey, the British foreign secretary, speaking today in the house of commons, expressed the hope that both Bulgaria and Servia would accept the offer of Russian arbitration. He said it was impossible to express too strongly the feelings of disappointment and disapproval the outbreak of war between the Balkan allies would cause. It would alienate from them the sympathy of Europe, which hitherto had been an important factor in securing the neutrality and non-interference of the great powers, while the states engaged would risk losing that which they had gained in the war with Turkey.

THE NEW POLICE COURT LAW

Allows Offenders to Pay Fines Instead of Going to Jail—Applied Here Today

Judge Enright opened this morning's session of police court by calling the attention of the local bar to the following section of the Acts of 1913 relative to police court procedure throughout the commonwealth.

Chapter 513, Acts of 1913. An act to authorize the suspension of sentences by the courts in certain instances:—Section 1.—When a person convicted before a municipal police or district court is sentenced to imprisonment, the court may direct that the execution of the sentence be suspended, and that he be placed on probation for such time and on such terms and conditions as it shall fix.

2 WORTH $10,000,000 END LIVES

Eugene Maggi and Wife, Wealthiest Persons in Switzerland, Committed Suicide

ZURICH, Switzerland, June 12.—Eugene Maggi and his wife, believed to be the wealthiest persons in Switzerland, committed suicide today, their act being actuated by sheer lack of interest in life.

Maggi was only 41 years old and his wife 35, and the joint estates of the man and wife are estimated at $10,000,000, while quite recently Maggi inherited the income from a number of extensive factories.

The couple had been greatly disappointed because their marriage was without issue and last night in a fit of despondency they decided to end their lives. They retired to their bedroom in their villa here, turned on the gas and were found dead in the morning.

RINGLING'S GREAT CIRCUS

Broke Record of Attendance for Lowell

WAS ENJOYED BY OVER 16,000 PEOPLE

The Vast Crowds at the Circus Certainly Discounted the Statements of Dull Times

Well, another big circus has folded its tents and vaned in the night. It was a good circus, too, and Lowell still holds her reputation as a good circus town. The circus people like to come to Lowell because they know everybody who has the price will see the show.

The big circus at the fair grounds sheltered thousands of people yesterday afternoon and evening and despite the fact that the circus people went away with more money than is sometimes on hand in the city treasury, Lowell would probably stand for another circus this summer and not feel very badly about it either. Some one has asked why it is that men and women, say nothing of the "kiddies," will forsake their slumber to watch a circus unled in the early morning. It isn't the fault of the circus and it's a shame to blame the "big noise" for everything. Fully 16,000 people attended the circus here yesterday.

The circus, however, is not to be looked at from the quietest standpoint for the big show has its good points and many of them. The circus is educational and it is sincerely to be hoped that no Lowell boy or girl will ever grow up without having seen a circus or two. We never saw the animals we read about until we saw them in the menagerie and by seeing them our "book learning" concerning them was solidified, so to speak. Then we saw animals from the elephant to the little pig, trained to do all kinds of stunts and that made us think. We marveled at the tricks that the animals were taught to do and then we thought of the great amount of patience that must have been exercised in the education of these animals. We kept on thinking and a hundred things that were good to think about floated across our mental horizon. We could see where there were a thousand things to be done in a second or two and we saw each man doing his own little bit and then we learned a lesson in discipline. Then the word "organization" dawned upon us and we saw it exemplified in the circus, for perfect organization is necessary if the circus is going to make good.

The big circus that entertained us at the fair grounds yesterday is said to be the best organized circus in the world. This circus carries about 1200 people and to think of the ease and quiet, comparatively speaking, with which they come and go is better than Mellen's food for thought. Yes, since the circus is a great institution and here's hoping it will never grow old. No accidents were reported yesterday in connection with the circus and that's rather wonderful too when you come to think about it. Thousands of people crowding, rushing, pushing and jumping and no one hurt. All the circus got was cold cash and we got its equivalent in entertainment. It was the best circus ever seen in this city because with the traditions of the past were entwined new ideas and all of the new features were very good.

TWO VETOS SUSTAINED

Senate Refuses to Follow House in Repealing Agency Milk Bill—Charlestown Subway Action

BOSTON, June 12.—Gov. Foss was twice sustained on vetoes in the senate yesterday. On the vetoed bill relative to the issuance of securities by electric light and power companies, Senator Coolidge, of Northampton, said that the governor's objections to the measure were met in the new codifications bill now being printed. There was therefore no need of passing the pending bill. The veto was then sustained, 30 to 0.

The veto of the Meany Milk Labeling bill, which was overruled yesterday by the house was sustained by the senate, 19 voting for the bill and 15 for the veto. The friends of the measure, therefore, failed to secure the necessary two-thirds vote.

The bill relative to the removal of the elevated structure in Charlestown and the substitution of a tunnel stands as originally passed to be engrossed by the senate. In other words, the senate did not adopt the referendum and other house amendments. The president when the matter was reached announced that it would be necessary to suspend rule 43, which provides that no engrossed bill may be amended. Senator Brennan immediately moved suspension of the rule and Senator Allen of Melrose objected. By a vote of 12 to 9 the senate refused to suspend the rule, a two-thirds vote being necessary. The amendments were therefore laid aside. The engrossment by the senate of the original bill therefore stands.

When the amendment to the constitution to prohibit sectarian legislation was received from the house, on motion of Senator Wells of Haverhill the matter was referred to the next general court.

Nine-in-Eleven Hour Veto—Street railway employees interested in the nine-hours-in-eleven bill had another conference with Gov. Foss yesterday, headed by their counsel, James H. Vahay. A four-minute conference that they had previously had with the governor was not satisfactory to the men.

Yesterday they talked with him a few minutes longer, but the result was pronounced equally unsatisfactory. The rumor was persistent at the station house yesterday that the governor will veto the bill.

Bunting Club Cricket

A cricket match will be held next Saturday at the Bunting grounds between the U. S. Bunting Cricket club and the strong Methuen team. The Bunting club hopes to duplicate their success of last Saturday against Fitchburg, when six wickets were made for four runs. The Bunting grounds will be represented by the following:

GROCERS AND BUTCHERS

Arrange a Great Picnic in August When All Will Attend With Their Families

The Lowell Grocers and Butchers association held their regular meeting last evening. President Edward S. Fitzgerald presided. Fifteen new members were admitted and there were several applications for membership. Those present voted unanimously to hold the annual picnic at Nahant beach in August, and the following general committee was appointed to take charge of arrangements: Edward S. Fitzgerald, John McCullough, John J. McCann, William Furlong, James F. McGarvey, David Gerow, Edward M. Bowers, John H. Parker, George G. Reed, John F. Saunders, James E. Freeman, Fred A. Tuttle, Charles H. O'Donnell and Michael McGithey.

It was voted unanimously that all grocers and butchers be requested to close on that day, which will be known as the Lowell grocers and butchers' day. The following committee was appointed to attend to this matter: Edward S. Fitzgerald, John McCullough, John J. McCann, David Gerow, James F. McGarvey and Edward M. Bowers. The committee in charge hopes to make this picnic the most successful ever held, and they hope that all housewives and retailers will plan to attend with their families. A brass band will be secured for the occasion.

NEW PUBLIC PRINTER

C. J. Ford, Wilson Supporter, Named

WASHINGTON, June 12.—Cornelius J. Ford of Hoboken, N. J., appointed public printer at $5,000 a year, was an original Wilson man in New Jersey. He will have charge of 4500 men. He is forty-six years old and has been a printer since boyhood. There has been a keen contest for this position, and at one time there was an intimation from an authoritative source that President Lynch of the International Typographical union had been selected. As a member of the New Jersey legislature Mr. Ford was a staunch supporter of the policies advocated by Woodrow Wilson when governor. Mr. Ford was born in Hoboken, Feb. 27, 1867, and has lived there all his life. Last year he ran for congress at the primary, but was defeated and was then appointed sergeant-at-arms of the house at Trenton, N. J. For ten years Mr. Ford has been New Jersey state president of the American Federation of Labor.

WILL SAVE THOUSANDS

Communal Warehouse in Dist. of Columbia

WASHINGTON, June 12.—By the establishment of a communal warehouse and the creation of a bureau which will supervise the purchasing of all supplies the local government of the district of Columbia expects not only to save thousands of dollars annually in the operation of the capital but to point a way for other cities to improve their systems. A special committee has been at work for some time past working out the plans. The main advantages that will accrue, the committee believes, will be the prevention of leaks in the acquisition of supplies through co-ordination of the various purchasing offices.

FOR SLUM ELIMINATION

Bryan Joins "Alley Cleaning Brigade"

WASHINGTON, June 12.—Secretary Bryan has joined the legal "alley cleaning brigade," which has for its object the wiping out of the slums of the capital. It was announced today that Mr. Bryan would speak at a meeting of the committee of 100 Sunday night on the subject of slum elimination.

THE BOARD OF TRADE

Directors Changed Hour of Meeting

The new board of directors of the Lowell board of trade convened for the first time last evening at the rooms in the Central building. President George M. Harrigan presided and the others present were Secretary John H. Murphy, Daniel F. Carroll, William A. Mitchell, Harry Dunlap, Frederic A. Fisher, Arthur W. Saunders, Daniel W. Shanahan, Erson B. Barlow, Walter E. Guyette, Milo D. Clay, Patrick O'Hearn, Paul B. Wesson, Frank Ricard, Irving D. Kimball and Robert E. Marden.

During the session, Mr. John H. Murphy was re-elected to the office of secretary by a unanimous vote and the directors also voted unanimously to increase his salary from $1200 to $1500. According to the decision of the directors, their regular meeting day was changed from Tuesday afternoons to Wednesday evenings at 7:45 o'clock. It is President Harrigan's intention to secure someone to deliver an address on a live topic at each of these sessions at the close of the regular business which would be difficult unless the change were made in the time of convening.

The arrangements for the annual summer outing were referred to the executive committee. The board is planning a visit to the Cape, shops of the Boston and Maine R.R. and the probable fact that this will be included in the outing.

The following names were added to the membership roll of the board: Harry Demaris, James N. McCombie, Sam Yafa, James Gilet and L. S. Kimball. The president and secretary, ex-officio, and Clarence H. Nelson, Harry Dunlap and Robert E. Marden constitute the executive committee for the year as announced by President Harrigan. Mr. Dunlap was selected to fill the place of the late President, Arthur L. Gray and the other members are the same as during the past year. The standing committees are as follows:

BODY BURNED TO DEATH

Boston Man Killed in Bangor Fire

BANGOR, Me., June 12.—Dennis Chamberlain of Boston was burned to death yesterday afternoon in a fire which completely destroyed the plant of the Grand Island Lumber company.

at Grand Isle. The mill was as dry as under and so rapidly did the flames gain headway that for a time the 13 hands were trapped in the interior of the building.

Many of them were severely burned when they plunged through the wall of fire to the outer air. All escaped save Chamberlain, who became bewildered and was then overcome. His body was burned to a crisp. He had been working for the company for several months. The loss on the mill is estimated at $75,000.

IMPERATOR, WORLD'S BIGGEST SHIP, WHICH SAILED FOR AMERICA YESTERDAY

NEW YORK, June 12.—Wide interest is attached to the first trip of the new Hamburg-American liner Imperator, the largest ship in the world, which sailed for Hamburg yesterday, and due to arrive here June 18. The Titanic was the world's greatest ship when she sailed for this port and went down in mid Atlantic a little more than a year ago. Every precaution has been taken to prevent such a fate befalling the Imperator. She has lifeboats for all and a double hull. She is built on a vast scale in everything. Her anchors, for instance, establish new records for size and strength. Although a transatlantic liner may not use her anchors for years at a time, they are always kept in position and in perfect working order. The Imperator carries no less than five great anchors. Her main anchor weighs 26,455 pounds and is the largest in the world. There are two additional bow anchors, weighing 17,536 pounds; a fourth of 11,136 pounds and a warp anchor of 4,560 pounds. Anchor chains are provided large and strong enough to hold the great ship. Every link of the chains is of hardened steel and is designed with a crossbar, that they may not tangle. The combined length of these chains is 1,260 yards, or about three-quarters of a mile. The combined weight of the five anchors and the chains is 155,062 pounds, which alone would make an important item of cargo for an ordinary vessel. The anchors are designed with long sharp-edged flukes to prevent them from dragging. Should they ever be used, the pull exerted against them would, of course, be enormous. The Imperator has a length of 919 feet, a beam of 95 feet and a tonnage of 50,000.

SUGAR MEN CONSTITUTE LOBBY

Admit it But Resent its Being
Termed Insidious—Say That
They Were Deceived

WASHINGTON, June 12.—Investigation of the "sugar lobby" by the senate committee yesterday was to a marked extent a controversy over whether President Wilson had given the sugar producers reason to believe they would have "nothing to fear" from free sugar under his administration. Louisiana and Hawaiian witnesses frankly admitted that they constituted a "lobby" and that comprehensive campaigns had been organized and carried out to create "back fires" on senators and representatives from their own states in the hope of winning their support to the antifree sugar side. "The prosperity of Louisiana was at stake," said Jules Godeaux, a sugar planter. "We tried to get the people to do business with us to write to senators and representatives, telling them that free sugar would destroy the business of the state. We tried to establish an endless chain of letters and telegrams to draw the attention of congress to our arguments." John F. Hamburg of New York, manager for a large Hawaiian sugar firm, admitted that his firm had urged all of their 1500 or more customers to write to senators and representatives pointing out the destruction to business that would follow free sugar. Jules Godeaux and E. V. Dickinson, the two Louisiana witnesses, declared they had tried in vain to see the president and had been informed that he had all the information he wanted on the sugar tariff.

Charges of the sugar men that they had been given assurances of the president's sympathy on the sugar question were based on statements Representative Broussard had made to the witnesses after a visit to President-Elect Wilson at Sea Girt. "I was assured by Mr. Broussard," said Harry Irwin, representing the Hilo, Hawaii, board of trade, "that a plan, involving a tariff reduction such as would not destroy any legitimate industry was prepared in Mr. Wilson's presence and sanctioned by Mr. Wilson with direct reference to the sugar situation." "We cast 50,000 or 60,000 votes for Wilson and subscribed money to his campaign in Louisiana," said Jules Godeaux hotly, "on the assurance we thought we had that he would not favor free sugar." "Mr. Dickinson of Louisiana was particularly emphatic in his statements that he was not an insidious lobbyist," declaring that he had looked the term up and found it meant "deceitful, lying and treacherous."

INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL PROGRESSING

Sun Reporter Makes a Tour of the Departments—Arrangements
for Public Exhibitions

All the departments of the Lowell Industrial school present a scene of unusual animation at the present time as the schools are to close on June 20th and will not re-open until Sept. 8th. The pupils, therefore, are busy in the various departments finishing up the work already begun, and getting ready for the exhibitions which are to be given in the boys' schools on Friday and Saturday of next week, June 21st and 22nd. On June 23rd, the girls' graduation will take place in High school hall on Monday evening, June 23rd. Prominent speakers are expected to explain the cooperation of the state in the work of the industrial school, but most of the exercises will be carried out by the pupils. The girls are now making the dresses in which they are to graduate.

Mr. Fisher, principal of the school is particularly anxious that those who wish to enter any of the departments next season should lose no time in registering. A great many have done so already, and it is desirable that practically all intending pupils should do so without further delay, so that he can make suitable arrangements in advance. The courses include: Carpentry, machine shop, draughting, electrical course, automobile repairing, and the incidental academic course of English history, and civics. Mathematics are taught in all the departments, but they are not taught in abstract subjects, being taught in a practical manner and in connection with the work of the different departments.

In the old Dartmouth school there is a draughting department, where the pupils are taught to draw up the designs for all orders made in the shop, and to make blue prints. These drawings are for the machine shop, steam and electric work, and wood room, and are always practical, being intended to apply to some concrete example. Everything is done here on the basis of a commercial shop. Mr. Walter Connolly is in charge of this part of the work. In the carpentry department, in charge of Mr. Rogers and Mr. Wiggins, the pupils are taught to make such practical things as screen doors, cabinets and cases. In the advanced classes the pupils build model houses to scale, with a greater regard to detail than is done in the house building trades. The machine shop in charge of Mr. William A. Webb, assisted by Mr. Timothy H. Reardon, has a real industrial aspect, and is equipped with the latest machinery, complete in every detail. There are some splendid examples of machine parts, emery wheel stands, hammers, etc., to attest to the finished instruction imparted, and the pupils are now engaged in the manufacture of a gasoline engine. In the Mann school the electrical work is in charge of Mr. H. L. Carragher. A complete course is given in wiring for lights, bells, telephones, etc. The pupils are also taught electrical draughting, and one of their most practical jobs is the wiring of the school which is now being done in accordance with the latest insurance requirements. They are also taught conduit systems, repair work, etc., and they are now setting up a plant to supply the current used in the work of the school.

The automobile work is in charge of Mr. Clarence Lesage. In this course it is intended to give the pupils a thorough course of automobile repairing such as they would learn in the shop. The course covers three years. During the past year the pupils have overhauled seven cars. They have done brazing, soldering, assembling parts, regular road repairs and some vulcanizing, also a little pattern making and moulding. The academic studies for boys are in charge of Mr. F. J. O'Donoghue, and comprise history, mathematics and civics. In the girls' school the sewing is in charge of Miss O'Brien and Miss Burke; the cooking in charge of Miss Donlon and Miss Bramhall; the mathematics, design, and textiles, in charge of Miss Downing; and the history, English and civics in charge of Miss A. L. Gookin.

HEALTH ENDANGERED

Rep. Giblin Objects to
Garbage on Flats

BOSTON, June 12.—Representative Thomas J. Giblin introduced an order in the house of representatives yesterday providing that an investigation of the dumping of garbage on the flats at Orient Heights be made with a view of abolishing the custom. The order recites that in spite of the state-wide movement to "swat-the-fly" the Boston Sanitary and Improvement company converts the garbage of the city of Boston up Chelsea creek on coverts and at the dumping grounds it is relanded and then left on the mud flats. "Millions and millions of house flies are hatched on this filth heap every day in the summer months," Representative Giblin told the committee on rules yesterday, "and there is a small epidemic of diphtheria and other diseases in Orient Heights in consequence."

FRESH PARLIAMENTARY SENSATION

Scandals Connecting Members of British Government With Speculations in Oils

LONDON, June 12.—Scandals connecting members of the British government with speculations in oil, somewhat resembling those disclosed during the parliamentary investigation of the "deals" made by cabinet ministers in Marconi shares, are reported, bringing about a fresh parliamentary sensation in England.

The Times recently warned the government that rumors were rife as to cabinet ministers speculating in the shares of oil companies which contracted for the British navy. The Globe today hints that the books of Charles E. Fenner, a stock broker who recently went into bankruptcy, show that Lord Stanley of Eborac, in 1907, a considerable amount of the funds of the Liberal party in oil shares, particularly those of a Mexican company which had obtained large government contracts.

ARREST ON SUSPICION

Must Not Be Made Without a Warrant

Mayor O'Donnell has addressed a letter to Redmond Welch, superintendent of police, in which he calls attention to the fact that no arrests should be made on suspicion of a misdemeanor without a warrant. The letter was written because of a complaint filed with the mayor and having to do with the arrest of several young men in Blackpole street on the afternoon of April 27. The letter:

Office of the Mayor,
Lowell, Mass., June 10, 1913.
Redmond Welch,
Supt. of Police,
Dear Sir:

A complaint has been filed with me relative to the arrest of several young men in this city, on the afternoon of April 27, the arrests having been made from Blackpole street. The facts disclosed at a subsequent conference at my office were as follows: On the afternoon mentioned an arrest was made by the police for violation of the gaming laws. The arrested party admitted his guilt in police court and was fined. After making the original arrest the officers arrested several other young men in the vicinity on suspicion of being present at an illegal game. These young men were taken to the police station and questioned and upon the failure of the officers to connect them with the game in question they were released from custody.

I desire to call the attention of the members of the department to the fact that no arrest should be made on suspicion of a misdemeanor without a warrant, and that witnesses cannot be summarily haled into the police station. Officers making arrests without justification, or false arrests lay themselves liable to criminal or civil actions.

Respectfully,
Signed, James E. O'Donnell,
Mayor and Commissioner.

GORHAM STREET SEWER

Work Was Begun at Davis Square Today

The much delayed sewer work job in Gorham street was begun this morning. The work would have been started last Monday but for the fact that a circus was coming to town and the street department decided it advisable to make any big holes in the street until the elephants and camels had pulled out.

The work was begun this morning in Davis square and will extend to Madison street. In order to facilitate matters, to render travel as comfortable as possible, the street railway has taken up one of its tracks and will arrange switches at either end of the sewer job. The sewer is laid between the tracks and it was decided, after some very heavy thinking on the part of railroad officials and others, that the best way out would be to take up one of the tracks and single track the sewer course, so to speak.

The old sewer, a 12-inch pipe affair, will be taken out and a brick sewer, 20 by 20 inches, will be installed. The old sewer was laid at an average of about eight feet and the new sewer will be considerably lower. It will have an average depth of about 12 feet.

TEXTILE STUDENTS PRAISE LOWELL

Her Mills and Textile School—Made Tour of Mills as Guests of Agent Mitchell

The members of the graduating class of the Philadelphia Textile school, which is a branch of the Pennsylvania Museum, were today the guests of Agent William A. Mitchell of the Massachusetts mill, and of the Lowell Textile school. The party was escorted through the principal sections of the city, and later in the forenoon they visited the entire plant of the Massachusetts Mohair Plush mill, while at noon they were the guests of Mr. Mitchell at dinner at the York club. This afternoon a trip was made through the various departments of the Blue-ow Carpet Co.'s plant and the Massachusetts mill.

The party is visiting the most prominent manufacturing cities of New England. They left New York Sunday and have already visited Providence, R. I., Worcester and Lowell.

WILLIAM A. MITCHELL
Agent of Mass. Mills

They made their headquarters in Boston and tomorrow and Saturday they will be busy inspecting the mills of Lawrence. They are scheduled to return to New York Sunday.

The party consists of Principal E. W. France, J. S. Cox of the faculty, and the following graduates: H. P. Hildgerd, New York; R. B. Lehman, Jr., Philadelphia; C. H. McLeaman, Cleveland, O.; G. R. Kront, Philadelphia; J. J. Beezle, Philadelphia; C. C. Bexter, New York; H. H. Schell, Brooklyn, R. I.; Todd, Providence, R. I.; C. H. Bell, Newark, N. J.; R. J. Kneenoch, Hingham, Wis.; W. P. Bravett, Lancaster, Penn.; L. Levy, New York; A. C. Kluge, New York; F. A. Roth, Philadelphia; E. P. Tenney, Clairmont, N. H.

The object of the trip is to have the graduates inspect the textile plants for casual study of economy and efficiency. It is also to show these young men the different methods of manufacturing cotton and wool merchandise, for every mill has a way of its own to manufacture products, some varying in cost and also in the number of help employed. The trip will be a very beneficial one to all concerned, for they were all very much interested and impressed on the style of manufacturing in Lowell.

The party arrived from Boston on the 8:45 o'clock train and were received at the Northern station by Mitchell of the Massachusetts mills and Secretary John H. Murphy of the board of trade. There were seven automobiles in attendance, the machines having been furnished by the following: Patrick O'Hearn, Robert E. Madden, George N. Harriman, Harry Dunlap, C. E. Collins, William A. Mitchell and Alfred Horne.

The automobiles with the visitors wheeled their way to the pretty residential section of Haverhill, known as Oaklands, and a view of the fine houses was taken. From there the party was taken to the summit of Fort Hill park, where a bird's eye view of Lowell and the surrounding towns was taken. The weather was ideal for such an occasion and the visitors saw the entire city in its beauty and with expressions of satisfaction and delight were heard from the group of young men.

From there the party was taken around the Butler estate and the principal residences in Belvidere and then a trip to the very heart of the city was made. Secretary Murphy acted as guide and in passing the principal sections of the city as well as the main buildings, he gave a very clear description. West Centralville was also taken in and it was from Lateview avenue that the beautiful line of manufacturing concerns was viewed.

At Textile School
The next move was to the Textile school in Moody street, and it was there one of the party remarked: "We certainly have to take off our hats to the Lowell school, for there is practically no comparison to be made with our place of instruction. This one has got the Philadelphia school beat in every respect."

The party would have been pleased to view the interior of the principal edifices, but they were unable to do so on account of their time being limited.

A part of the Pawtucket boulevard was shown as well as the Pawtucket Falls, from where flows the great water power of this city. The system of canals was explained by Mr. Murphy and a brief history of the construction of the dam was told. The young men were elated with what they saw, and many remarked this was the best view yet, although several cities had been visited.

Plush Work Explained
The Massachusetts Mohair Plush mill was the next destination, and there the party was cordially welcomed by Mr. Joseph E. Duval, an official of the company, who escorted the visitors through every department of this interesting mill. Each process of work was explained, from the sorting of raw wool and silk to the finishing department, where some of the finest plush manufactured in the country is turned out. The young men showed great interest in the work and every possible detail was looked after so that they acquired all the knowledge they desired in this line of industry. Principal France and Mr. Duval were kept very busy in answering questions and explaining the various operations of the numerous pieces of machinery. Nearly two hours were spent in this plant and all greatly appreciated the tour.

At 12 o'clock the party repaired to the York club in Dutton street, where a dainty dinner was enjoyed, the host being Agent Mitchell. At the conclusion of the repast the Blue-ow Carpet Co. and the Massachusetts mills were visited.

Principal France, who is well acquainted in Lowell, having come here on previous occasions, was one of the promoters of the Lowell Textile school. In conversation with the writer, he said the Lowell Textile school was founded after an exhibit had been held at the Parker house in Boston by the Philadelphia Textile school. A committee was appointed a short time later and he had the honor of serving on the same. He said Boston wanted the school, but the bill passed at the legislature was so arranged that any city with over 45,000 spindles could have a textile school, providing the said city was willing to disburse the same amount as the state in the establishment of the school. Shortly afterward the Lowell school was organized and now it is one of the best in the country.

The Lowell Textile school as much as I know of it," said Mr. France, "is no superior in this country and probably not in the entire world. Of course we cannot compare the Philadelphia Textile school with it, for our school is a branch of the Pennsylvania Museum, and the two are working different branches. The Lowell school teaches only textiles, while at our school we deal more with art, colors and designs, although the other branch is also included. The art feature is very strongly prominent in our work."

Latest music, later, tomorrow eve.

SUGAR MEN TESTIFY

At Senate Lobby Investigation Today

WASHINGTON, June 12.—Members of the senate lobby investigating committee planned to hold the investigation more strictly to the scope of the senate's instructions, when the hearings were resumed today. The references to President Wilson's attitude upon the sugar tariff and the frequent clashes between witnesses and committee members, which characterized yesterday's sessions, led Chairman Overman and other members of the committee to attempt to hold the testimony strictly to the question of whether insidious lobbying is being carried on in Washington.

Several witnesses connected with the Louisiana sugar planters campaign against free sugar were ready to be heard when the session opened. The committee expected to take up the other side of the "sugar lobby" question before the end of the day, and to begin examination of men identified with the publicity campaign in favor of free sugar.

Julius J. Hochhaus and E. T. Dickinson, two of the Louisiana planters who testified before the committee yesterday, said that only $7500 had been raised so far by the sugar interests to finance the Washington fight against free sugar.

From there the party was taken around the Butler estate and the principal residences in Belvidere and then a trip to the very heart of the city was made. Secretary Murphy acted as guide and in passing the principal sections of the city as well as the main buildings, he gave a very clear description. West Centralville was also taken in and it was from Lateview avenue that the beautiful line of manufacturing concerns was viewed.

At Textile School
The next move was to the Textile school in Moody street, and it was there one of the party remarked: "We certainly have to take off our hats to the Lowell school, for there is practically no comparison to be made with our place of instruction. This one has got the Philadelphia school beat in every respect."

The party would have been pleased to view the interior of the principal edifices, but they were unable to do so on account of their time being limited.

A part of the Pawtucket boulevard was shown as well as the Pawtucket Falls, from where flows the great water power of this city. The system of canals was explained by Mr. Murphy and a brief history of the construction of the dam was told. The young men were elated with what they saw, and many remarked this was the best view yet, although several cities had been visited.

Plush Work Explained
The Massachusetts Mohair Plush mill was the next destination, and there the party was cordially welcomed by Mr. Joseph E. Duval, an official of the company, who escorted the visitors through every department of this interesting mill. Each process of work was explained, from the sorting of raw wool and silk to the finishing department, where some of the finest plush manufactured in the country is turned out. The young men showed great interest in the work and every possible detail was looked after so that they acquired all the knowledge they desired in this line of industry. Principal France and Mr. Duval were kept very busy in answering questions and explaining the various operations of the numerous pieces of machinery. Nearly two hours were spent in this plant and all greatly appreciated the tour.

At 12 o'clock the party repaired to the York club in Dutton street, where a dainty dinner was enjoyed, the host being Agent Mitchell. At the conclusion of the repast the Blue-ow Carpet Co. and the Massachusetts mills were visited.

Principal France, who is well acquainted in Lowell, having come here on previous occasions, was one of the promoters of the Lowell Textile school. In conversation with the writer, he said the Lowell Textile school was founded after an exhibit had been held at the Parker house in Boston by the Philadelphia Textile school. A committee was appointed a short time later and he had the honor of serving on the same. He said Boston wanted the school, but the bill passed at the legislature was so arranged that any city with over 45,000 spindles could have a textile school, providing the said city was willing to disburse the same amount as the state in the establishment of the school. Shortly afterward the Lowell school was organized and now it is one of the best in the country.

The Lowell Textile school as much as I know of it," said Mr. France, "is no superior in this country and probably not in the entire world. Of course we cannot compare the Philadelphia Textile school with it, for our school is a branch of the Pennsylvania Museum, and the two are working different branches. The Lowell school teaches only textiles, while at our school we deal more with art, colors and designs, although the other branch is also included. The art feature is very strongly prominent in our work."

BIG FIRE IN WESTFORD

25 Acres Burned With 700,000 Ft. of Lumber

A serious forest fire broke out in the town of Westford yesterday afternoon about 4 o'clock and it proved so stubborn that it was necessary to send to this city for aid. Chief Saunders sent steamer No. 2 and District Chief Crowley to the town but the fire had spread rapidly and burned into a large pile of lumber owned by O. B. Spaulding and containing several thousand feet. The fire departments from Chelmsford, Grantville and Tyngsboro were also called as it was feared that the blaze would reach some of the buildings nearby.

The fire burned over an area of 25 acres of standing timber and burned over a lumber yard where 700,000 feet of lumber was piled. The loss on the lumber is estimated at about $15,000 and nothing definite can be given as to the damage done to the timber. As stated above the lumber was owned by O. B. Spaulding, and it is believed that the greater part of the growing timber on the place is owned by George W. Heywood of Westford. Sparks from engine are believed to have caused the fire. It was without doubt one of the largest fires that the town has ever experienced. No buildings were damaged.

WOMAN DRANK HALF PINT OF CREOLIN

Mrs. Anna C. Gray of Coburn Street is Dying at the Lowell Hospital

Mrs. Anna C. Gray, 56 years of age, was removed to the Lowell hospital early this morning, suffering from poisoning caused by the drinking of a half-pint of creolin. It is not known whether the woman drank the poison thinking it was medicine, or whether she intended doing away with herself. She is now at the hospital and the attending physicians fear she will not recover, although everything possible was done to save her life.

Mrs. Gray lived with her niece, Mrs. Lena L. Haney, 175 Coburn street, with whom she slept. This morning she awoke at about 5 o'clock and went into the kitchen. She was found later lying on the floor and suffering intense pain. It was soon found she had drunk the contents of a half-pint bottle of creolin and immediately she was given a large quantity of milk, which greatly relieved her condition. A physician was called and the unfortunate woman was later removed to the hospital. The woman has not been enjoying good health for some time, and it is believed she was not well this morning and thinking she was taking medicine, drank creolin. This afternoon it was stated at the hospital the woman was still in the same condition.

PASS WESTERN TROLLEY BILL OVER FOSS' VETO

BOSTON, June 12.—The house today passed over the governor's veto the bill giving the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad authority to acquire all trolley lines in western Massachusetts. Later the senate also passed the bill over the governor's veto by a vote of 31 to 6.

CLASS DAY AT NORMAL SCHOOL

The class of 1913 of the State Normal school of this city held their class day today and the festivities consisted of the planting of the class tree on the school grounds, a banquet and program. Mr. Clarence M. Weed of the faculty was present as the honorary member of the class.

Early in the afternoon, the class gathered on the grounds and the officers planted the class tree while the members rendered the class song. The banquet began at two o'clock in one of the rooms in the building and the catering was done by the D. L. Page company. The whole affair was highly enjoyable. Miss Gertrude Quigley, president of the class, delivered an address and she was followed by the toastmistress, Miss Helen McGregor. The history of the class as read by the class historian, Miss Helen Mansfield, was highly entertaining and interesting, and the prophecy by the class prophet, Miss Elizabeth Jacobs, was most pleasing and amusing. J. Omer LeDuc, the only male member of the class, responded to the toast "Co-ed," and Miss Irene McMillan and Miss Ruth Furbush responded to the toast "Engaged Girls."

During the event the class songs were sung and other musical numbers rendered. The class numbers 75 members.

THE CITY SHOULD BUILD HOSPITAL

General Vaccination May be Ordered Throughout the City—Several Schools Have Been Exposed

Another case of smallpox was reported at the office of the board of health yesterday afternoon and if Dr. Frank McAvinnue's investigation goes to show that the present smallpox situation is more than local, a general vaccination, covering the whole city, will be ordered and from present indications it would look as if we would have to bare arms for the fray.

The latest case reported was that of Corolla Blanchard. Her home is at 61 Carolyn street. She is 42 years old and has a husband and four children. She has been removed to the smallpox hospital in Chelmsford street. Mrs. Blanchard was taken sick June 1 and did not have a doctor until yesterday afternoon. Dr. Bellemore, who is doing special vaccination work for the board of health, was called in. He found the woman had smallpox and that it had reached almost the turning point. He reported the matter to the board of health office and Dr. Livingston, the local smallpox expert, was communicated with. Dr. Livingston said it was smallpox and very pronounced.

Getting the Story

This morning Dr. McAvinnue set about to get the story of the case and the board was very much interested in what information the doctor had succeeded in corraling. First of all he found that two of the children had been sick and he was satisfied that they had had smallpox. One of the children went to St. Joseph's school while he was sick and the fact that he was not too sick to go to school was very good evidence. Dr. McAvinnue stated that the case was a very mild one. The father of the family is a carpenter and has been working in Ayer, going back and forth on the electric cars. Agent Bates will give this information to the Ayer authorities in order that they may take the necessary precautions at that end. Only one in the family, a boy, 15 years old, had ever been vaccinated. All of the family would have been sent to the smallpox hospital but for the fact that there isn't room for them. The Blanchard home has been quarantined.

School Vaccination

Vaccination was begun today in St. Joseph's college, St. Louis school, and the annex to St. Joseph's convent. At the meeting of the board of health this forenoon Agent Bates was instructed to employ as many doctors as are necessary to properly care for the work of vaccination and it was also agreed that should any signs of the disease show itself in any of the public schools, that a general school vaccination be made at once.

Dr. Brundelle suggested that it might be a very good thing to order a general vaccination. "It has been twelve or fifteen years since there has been a general vaccination in this city," he said, "and it looks as if present conditions might warrant a general vaccination at this time."

State Inspector Present

for the state board of health, was present at the meeting and allowed that Dr. Brundelle's suggestion was a very good one. He thought, however, that it might be well to wait the result of Dr. McAvinnue's investigation, which will be very thorough.

Cases Are Linked

Dr. McAvinnue believes that the case sent to the hospital months ago, the case reported two days ago, and the case reported yesterday, are linked and because of the fact that schools have been exposed, and people with smallpox have been going from house to house, there is nothing for their board to expect but that other cases will be reported. In fact the board is of the opinion that there have been cases of smallpox in the city within the last month or two that were not reported to the board.

Hospital Badly Needed

The present situation but emphasizes the great need of a contagious hospital in this city, but when the question was recently approached by the mayor at a meeting of the municipal council, there was nothing doing. The mayor asked for suggestions, but a word did his brother members have to offer. The mayor allows that it takes more than one member of the municipal council to select a site and build a hospital, and the board of health is at its wit's end as to what it will do with smallpox patients, provided other cases should put in an appearance.

ATTEAUX GOES FREE

Case Against Collins, Other Defendant in the Dynamite Case, Was Placed on File

BOSTON, June 12.—Frederick E. Atteaux, the dye manufacturer who was a co-defendant of President William M. Wood of the American Woolen Co. in the dynamite planting case, will not be tried a second time. District Attorney Pelletier today not pressed the case against Atteaux and placed on file the case of Dennis J. Collins, the third defendant who turned state's evidence.

Three Defendants Freed

The trial in which the jury disagreed regarding Atteaux resulted in the acquittal of Wood and the conviction of Collins.

The district attorney's decision regarding Atteaux and Collins was made known today when Mr. Pelletier filed his intentions in the office of the clerk of the Suffolk county superior court. Regarding the Atteaux case, the district attorney wrote:

"I will no further prosecute this defendant. After a trial of over two weeks before a representative jury, a co-defendant was found not guilty and a defendant reported on this defendant, a third being found guilty. I presume, on his own confession."

Could Not Expect Verdict

"After careful consideration and consultation I have reached the opinion that the commonwealth could not fairly and reasonably expect a verdict against this defendant upon a second trial."

"After five months of preparation the government has exhausted every means for securing honest evidence and there is no likelihood, even remote that a stronger case could be made out on a second trial and in some respects there is grave prospect that the case would not be so strong."

TROLLEY POLE BROKE

Corner of Church and Central Streets

That the Bay State Street railway has poles that are not overburdened with reliability has been evidenced in at least two instances within the last week or ten days. The second manifestation of weakness was made last evening when at about 5.15 o'clock, a heavy metallic trolley pole broke at the corner of Church and Central streets, endangering the lives of persons in the immediate vicinity. It was but a week or ten days ago that a pole broke at the corner of Middlesex and Central streets, and lives in this instance, too, were endangered.

The Lawrence street car was just rounding the curve from Church street to Central street, coming citywards, when, without any warning, the pole snapped off at the paving. It fell in the general direction of the Washington Tavern. The big metallic cup came off and barely grazed a man and woman who were riding in a carriage on the other side of the street.

Card of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere thanks to our kind friends, also to Div. S. A. Q. MAY NOT PRESS MURDER CHARGE

Pingrees of Lowell and Herman, Strike Leaders, Arraigned at Ipswich Today

100 Shots Fired

IPSWICH, June 12.—The belief was freely expressed today that the charge of murder made against three leaders of the Industrial Workers of the World as a result of the rioting at the Ipswich hosiery mill during which Miss Nicoletta Paudelopoulou was killed, would not be pressed because of the lack of evidence against the accused.

Medical Examiner's Opinion

The medical examiner's opinion that the woman was shot in the front of the skull tends to confirm in the opinion of some of those interested in the case that she was killed by a bullet from a policeman's revolver and was not the victim of a shot fired from a second story window or other point occupied by sympathizers with the strike.

District Attorney Atwill, who prosecuted the labor case growing out of the Lawrence strike, will not proceed on the present charge, it is thought, unless there is strong evidence to justify such a course.

Pingrees in Court

The three defendants, Nathan Lirman, Carroll L. Pingree and the latter's wife appeared in court today and their cases were put over for a week. Thomas J. Halliday, national secretary of the textile branch of the I. W. O., did not appear to answer the charge of having violated a town ordinance. His bond of $100 was ordered forfeited and a warrant for his arrest was issued.

Testimony that the strikers were the aggressors in the fight with the police Tuesday night was given in the district court today by Charles Hall, chairman of the board of selectmen.

19 Strikers Arraigned

Appearing as a witness against 19 strikers accused of rioting, Mr. Hall described the events of Tuesday night. About 200 strikers, he said, acting apparently in concert, marched towards the Ipswich hosiery mills, elbowing the working employees and pushing them into the gutter. The pickets were ordered by the police to move to the opposite side of the street. Soon after, stones and bottles were thrown, many of them from the windows of nearby tenement houses. Fighting then became general, he said.

The witness said he saw one of the crowd throw a stone at a policeman. The officer started in pursuit but stumbled and as he fell he was shot at by the man whom he had pursued. Mr. Hall said he could not recognize any of the defendants as among those participating in the riot.

THE NEW POLICE COURT LAW

Allows Offenders to Pay Fines Instead of Going to Jail—Applied Here Today

Judge Enright opened this morning's session of police court by calling the attention of the local baristers to the following section of the Acts of 1913 relative to police court procedure throughout the commonwealth.

Chapter 633, Acts of 1913. An act to authorize the suspension of sentences by the courts in certain instances.—Section 1.—When a person convicted before a municipal, police or district court is sentenced to imprisonment, the court may direct that the execution of the sentence be suspended, and that he be placed on probation for such time and on such terms and conditions as it shall fix.

2 WORTH $10,000,000 END LIVES

Eugene Maggi and Wife, Wealthiest Persons in Switzerland, Committed Suicide

ZURICH, Switzerland, June 12.—Eugene Maggi and his wife, believed to be the wealthiest persons in Switzerland, committed suicide today, their act being actuated by sheer lack of interest in life.

Maggi was only 41 years old and his wife 35, and the joint estates of the man and wife are estimated at $10,000,000, while quite recently Maggi inherited the income from a number of extensive factories.

The couple had been greatly disappointed because their marriage was without issue and last night in a fit of despondency they decided to end their lives. They retired to their bedroom in their villa here, turned on the gas and were found dead in the morning.

RINGLING'S GREAT CIRCUS

Broke Record of Attendance for Lowell

WAS ENJOYED BY OVER 15,000 PEOPLE

The Vast Crowds at the Circus Certainly Discounted the Statements of Dull Times.

Well, another big circus has folded its tents and vanished in the night. It was a good circus, too, and Lowell still holds her reputation as a good circus town. The circus people like to come to Lowell because they know everybody who has the price will see the show. The big canvas at the Fair grounds sheltered thousands of people yesterday afternoon and evening, and despite the fact that the circus people went away with more money than is sometimes found in the city treasury, Lowell would probably stand for another circus this summer and not feel very badly about it either. Some one has asked why it is that men and women, say nothing of the "kiddies," will forsake their slumber in watch a circus unfold in the early morning. It isn't the fault of the circus and it's a shame to blame the "big noise" for everything. Fully 15,000 people attended the circus here yesterday.

The circus, however, is not to be looked at from the quirkish standpoint, for the big show has its good points and many of them. The circus is educational and it is sincerely to be hoped that no Lowell boy or girl will ever grow up without having seen a circus or two. We never saw the animals we read about until we saw them in the menagerie and by seeing them our "book learning" concerning them was solidified, so to speak. Then we saw animals, from the elephant to the little pig, trained to do all kinds of stunts and that made us think. We marveled at the tricks that the animals were taught to do and then we thought of the great amount of patience that must have been exercised in the education of these animals. We kept on thinking and a hundred things that were good to think about floated across our mental horizon. We could see where there were a thousand things to be done in a second or two and we saw each man doing his own little bit and then we learned a lesson in discipline. Then the word "organization" dawned upon us and we saw it exemplified in the circus, for perfect organization is necessary if the circus is going to make good.

The big circus that entertained us at the Fair grounds yesterday is said to be the best organized circus in the world. This circus carries about 1200 people and to think of the ease and quiet, comparatively speaking, with which they come and go is better than Mellen's food for thought. Yes, indeed, the circus is a great institution and here's hoping it will never grow old. No accidents were reported yesterday in connection with the circus and that's rather wonderful too when you come to think about it. Thousands of people crowding, rushing, pushing and jumping and no one hurt. All the circus got was cold cash and we got its equivalent in entertainment. It was the best circus ever seen in this city because with the traditions of the past were entwined new ideas and all of the new features were very good.

TWO VETOS SUSTAINED

Senate Refuses to Follow House in Repassing Measure Milk Bill—Charlestown Subway Action

BOSTON, June 12.—Gov. Foss was twice sustained on vetoes in the senate yesterday. On the vetoed bill relating to the issuance of securities by electric light and power companies. Senator Coolidge of Northampton said that the governor's objections to the measure were met in the new modifications bill now being printed. There was therefore no need of passing the pending bill. The veto was then sustained, 20 to 9.

The veto of the Meaney Milk Labeling bill, which was overridden Tuesday by the house, was sustained by the senate, 12 voting for the bill and 17 for the veto. The friends of the measure, therefore, failed to secure the necessary two-thirds vote.

The bill relative to the removal of the elevated structure in Charlestown and the substitution of a tunnel stands as originally passed to be engrossed by the senate. In other words, the senate did not adopt the referendum and other house amendments. The president when the matter was reached announced that it would be necessary to suspend rule 49, which provides that no engrossed bill may be amended. Senator Brennan immediately moved suspension of the rule and Senator Allen of Melrose objected. By a vote of 12 to 9 the senate refused to suspend the rule, a two-thirds vote being necessary. The amendments were therefore laid aside.

The engrossment by the senate of the original bill therefore stands. Notice was received that the house insisted upon its amendment to Section 19 of the codification of the election laws and a committee of conference was appointed.

When the amendment to the constitution to prohibit sectarian legislation was received from the house, on motion of Senator Wells of Haverhill the matter was referred to the next general court.

Nine-in-Eleven Hour Veto—Street railway employees interested in the nine-hours-in-eleven bill had another conference with Gov. Foss yesterday, headed by their counsel, James H. Vahney. A four-minute conference that they had previously had with the governor was not satisfactory to the men.

Yesterday they talked with him a few minutes longer, but the result was pronounced equally unsatisfactory. The rumor was persistent at the state house yesterday that the governor will veto the bill.

Bunting Club Cricket—A cricket match will be held next Saturday at the Bunting grounds between the U. S. Bunting Cricket club and the strong Methuen team. The Bunting club hopes to duplicate their success of last Saturday against Litchburg, when six wickets were made for four runs. The Buntings will be represented by the following:

GROCERS AND BUTCHERS

Arrange a Great Picnic in August When All Will Attend With Their Families

The Lowell Grocers and Butchers association held their regular meeting last evening. President Edward S. Fitzgerald presided. Fifteen new members were admitted and there were several applications for membership. Those present voted unanimously to hold the annual picnic at Nantasket beach in August, and the following general committee was appointed to take charge of arrangements: Edward S. Fitzgerald, John McCullough, John J. McCann, William Furlong, James P. McGarvey, David Gerow, Edward M. Bowers, John H. Burke, George G. Read, John F. Saunders, James E. Freeman, Fred A. Tuttle, Charles H. O'Donnell and Michael McGilchery.

It was voted unanimously that all grocers and butchers be requested to close on that day, which will be known as the Lowell grocers and butchers' day. The following committee was appointed to attend to this matter: Edward S. Fitzgerald, John McCullough, John J. McCann, David Gerow, James P. McGarvey and Edward M. Bowers. The committee in charge hopes to make this picnic the most successful ever held, and they hope that all wholesalers and retailers will plan to attend with their families. A brass band will be secured for the occasion.

NEW PUBLIC PRINTER

C. J. Ford, Wilson Supporter, Named

WASHINGTON, June 12.—Cornelius J. Ford of Hoboken, N. J., appointed public printer at $5,500 a year, was an original Wilson man in New Jersey. He will have charge of 4500 men. He is forty-six years old and has been a printer since boyhood. There has been a keen contest for this position, and at one time there was an intimation from an authoritative source that President Leland of the International Typographical union had been selected. As a member of the New Jersey legislature Mr. Ford was a staunch supporter of the policies advocated by Woodrow Wilson when governor. Mr. Ford was born in Hoboken, Feb. 27, 1867, and has lived there all his life. Last year he ran for congress at the primary, but was defeated and was then appointed sergeant-at-arms of the house at Trenton, N. J. For ten years Mr. Ford has been New Jersey state president of the American Federation of Labor.

Communal Warehouse in Dist. of Columbia

WASHINGTON, June 12.—By the establishment of a communal warehouse and the creation of a bureau which will supervise the purchasing of all supplies the local government of the district of Columbia expects not only to save thousands of dollars annually in the operation of the capital but to point a way for other cities to improve their systems. A special committee has been at work for some time past mapping out the plans. The main advantages that will accrue, the committee believes, will be the prevention of leaks in the acquisition of supplies through co-ordination of the various purchasing offices.

FOR SLUM ELIMINATION

Bryan Joins "Alley Cleaning Brigade"

WASHINGTON, June 12.—Secretary Bryan has joined the local "alley cleaning brigade" which has for its object the wiping out of the slums of the capital. It was announced today that Mr. Bryan would speak at a meeting of the committee of 100 Sunday night on the subject of slum elimination.

THE BOARD OF TRADE

Directors Changed Hour of Meeting

The new board of directors of the Lowell board of trade convened for the first time last evening at the rooms in the Central building. President George M. Harrigan presided and the others present were Secretary John H. Murphy, Daniel F. Carroll, William A. Mitchell, Harry Dunlap, Frederic A. Fisher, Arthur W. Saunders, Daniel W. Shanahan, Erson D. Barlow, Walter E. Guyette, Milo D. Clay, Patrick O'Hearn, Paul B. Wesson, Frank Ricard, Irving D. Kimball and Robert F. Marden.

During the session, Mr. John H. Murphy was re-elected to the office of secretary by a unanimous vote and the directors also voted unanimously to increase his salary from $1300 to $1500. According to the declaration of the directors, their regular meeting-day was changed from Tuesday afternoons to Wednesday evenings at 7:45 o'clock. It is President Harrigan's intention to secure someone to deliver an address on a live topic at each of these sessions at the close of the regular business which would be difficult unless the change were made in the time of convening.

The arrangements for the annual summer outing were referred to the executive committee. The board is planning a visit to the car shops of the Boston and Maine at Billerica and it is probable that this will be included in the outing.

The following names were added to the membership roll of the board: Harry Donnas, James N. McComble, Sam Yafa, James Gilet and L. S. Kimball. The president and secretary, ex-officio, and Clarence H. Nelson, Harry Dunlap and Robert F. Marden constitute the executive committee for the year as announced by President Harrigan. Mr. Dunlap was selected to fill the place of the late President, Arthur J. Gray and the other members are the same as during the past year. The standing committees are as follows:

City beautiful—Harvey B. Greene, chairman; C. C. Brock, Harold A. Varman, Thomas J. Guyette, Philip S. Marden, Frederick A. Flather, Luther W. Paulkner, Frederic A. Fisher.

BODY BURNED TO DEATH

Boston Man Killed in Bangor Fire

BANGOR, Me., June 12.—Dennis Chamberlain of Boston was burned to death yesterday afternoon in a fire which completely destroyed the plant of the Grand Island Lumber company at Grand Isle. The mill was as dry as tinder and so rapidly did the flames gain headway that for a time the 15 hands were trapped in the interior of the building.

Many of them were severely burned when they plunged through the wall of fire to the outer air. All escaped save Chamberlain, who became bewildered and was then overcome. His body was burned to a crisp. He had been working for the company for several months. The loss on the mill is estimated at $75,000.

A GREAT RUSH FOR FIRST PAPERS

There was a grand rush for the first papers in the naturalization process at the session which was resumed in the forenoon. The clerks' desks on the second floor of the court house in Gorham street, and the clerk and his assistant were kept extremely busy through the day. The session for those qualified for second papers was completed yesterday and the first papers or declaration of intent to become a citizen were opened immediately.

Many different languages were heard spoken among the multitude of applicants who thronged the corridor and filled the two offices set aside for the filling out of the necessary blanks. At 3 o'clock this morning there were very few applicants and the waiting increased rapidly until at noontime the corridor was filled. All wandered about talking with one another and holding improvised consultations regarding their application blanks.

Each time the clerks' assistants came from the office they were surrounded by an excited crowd of prospective citizens, each of whom had numerous inquiries and everybody pronounced their questions at once. As we were curious to know how long they had to wait and the faces of the latest arrivals were so encouraged, we noted when they saw the clerk's name ahead of them on the clerk's list.

The applicants are required to fill out blanks, giving a description of their personal appearance, stating names, age, parentage, nationality, date of coming to this country, etc., and two rooming places. The clerk's assistants gave out blank sets aside for this purpose. Scores of applicants got impatient at the delay and went away.

IMPERATOR, WORLD'S BIGGEST SHIP, WHICH SAILED FOR AMERICA YESTERDAY

NEW YORK, June 12.—Wide interest is attached to the first trip of the new Hamburg-American liner Imperator, the largest ship in the world, which sailed from Hamburg yesterday, and due to arrive here June 18. The Titanic was the world's greatest ship when she sailed for this port and went down in mid Atlantic a little more than a year ago. Every precaution has been taken to prevent such a fate befalling the Imperator. She has lifeboats for all and a double hull. She is built on a vast scale in everything. Her anchors, for instance, establish new records for size and strength. Although a transatlantic liner may not use her anchors for years at a time, they are always kept in position and in perfect working order. The Imperator carries no less than five great anchors. Her main anchor weighs 26,135 pounds and is the largest in the world. There are two additional bow anchors, weighing 17,635 pounds; a fourth of 11,435 pounds and a warp anchor of 4,960 pounds. Anchor chains are provided large and strong enough to hold the great ship. Every link of the chains is of hardened steel and is designed with a crossbar, that they may not tangle. The combined length of these chains is 1,250 yards, or about three-quarters of a mile. The combined weight of the five anchors and the chains is 105,032 pounds, which alone would make an important item of cargo for an ordinary vessel. The anchors are designed with long sharpened flukes to prevent them from dragging. Should they ever be used the pull exerted against them would, of course, be enormous. The Imperator has a length of 912 feet, a beam of 38 feet and a tonnage of 50,000.

SUGAR MEN CONSTITUTE LOBBY

Admit it But Resent its Being
Termed Insidious—Say That
They Were Deceived

WASHINGTON, June 12.—Investigation of the "sugar lobby" by the senate committee yesterday was given a lurid extent, a controversy over whether President Wilson had given the sugar producers reason to believe they would have "nothing to fear" from free sugar under his administration.

Louisiana and Hawaiian witnesses frankly admitted that they constituted a "lobby" and that comprehensive campaigns had been organized and carried out to create "back fires" on senators and representatives from their own states in the hope of winning their support to the antiree sugar side.

"The prosperity of Louisiana was at stake," said Jules Godchaux, a sugar planter. "We tried to get the people to do business with us to the people we had business with to write to senators and representatives, telling them that free sugar would destroy the business of the state. We tried to establish an endless chain of letters and telegrams to draw the attention of congress to our arguments."

John F. Hamburg of New York, manager for a large Hawaiian sugar firm, admitted that his firm had urged all of their 1500 or more customers to write to senators and representatives pointing out the destruction to business that would follow free sugar.

Jules Godchaux and L. F. Dickinson, the two Louisiana witnesses, declared they had tried in vain to tell the president and had been informed that he had all the information he wanted on the sugar tariff.

Charges of the sugar men that they had been given assurances of the president's sympathy on the sugar question were based on statements representative of the sugar men made to the witnesses after a visit to President-Elect Wilson at Sea Girt.

"We cast 50,000 or 60,000 votes for Wilson and subscribed money to his campaign in Louisiana," said Jules Godchaux hotly, "on the assurance we thought we had that he would not favor free sugar."

Mr. Dickinson of Louisiana was particularly emphatic in his statements that he was not an insidious lobbyist, declaring that he had looked the term up and found it meant "deceitful, lying and treacherous."

Senator Williams had informed him Mr. Dickinson said, that he thought two-thirds of the senate finance committee were against free trade, but that three-fourths would vote for it.

The committee had not finished with the antiree sugar witnesses when it adjourned last night.

lish history, and civics. Mathematics are taught in all the departments, but they are not taught as abstract subjects, being taught in a practical manner and in connection with the work of the different departments.

In the old Hartford school there is a draughting department where the pupils are taught to draw up the designs for all orders made in the shop, and to make blue prints. These drawings are for the machine shop, steam and electric work, and wood room, and are always practical, being intended to apply to some concrete example. Everything is done here on the basis of a commercial shop. Mr. Walter Connolly is in charge of this part of the work. In the carpentry department, in charge of Mr. Rogers and Mr. Wiggins, the pupils are taught to make such practical things as screen doors, cabinets and gables. In the advanced classes the pupils build model houses to scale, with a greater regard to detail than is done in the house building trade. The machine shop in charge of Mr. William A. Webb, assisted by Mr. Timothy H. Reardon, has a real industrial aspect, and is equipped with the latest machinery, complete in every detail. There are some splendid examples of machine parts, many of which are made in the shop, and the pupils are now engaged in the manufacture of a gasoline engine.

In the Mann school the electrical work is in charge of Mr. E. L. Carrance. A complete course is given in wiring for lights, bells, telephones, etc. The pupils are also taught electrical draughting, and one of their most practical jobs is the wiring of the school which is now being done in accordance with the latest insurance requirements. They are also taught conduit systems, repair work, and are now settling up a plant to supply the current used in the work of the school.

The automobile work is in charge of Mr. Clarence Lesser. In this course it is intended to give the pupils a thorough course of automobile repairing, such as they would learn in the shop. The course covers three years. During the past year the pupils have overhauled seven cars. They have done brazing, soldering, assembling of parts, regular road repairs, and some vulcanizing, also a little pattern making and moulding.

The academic studies for boys are in charge of Mr. F. J. O'Donnoghue, and comprise history, mathematics and civics. In the girls' school the sewing is in charge of Miss O'Dea and Miss Burns; the cooking in charge of Miss Denlon and Miss Bramhall; the mathematics, design, and civics, in charge of Miss Downing; and the history, English and civics in charge of Miss A. L. Gookin.

HEALTH ENDANGERED

Rep. Giblin Objects to
Garbage on Flats

BOSTON, June 12.—Representative Thomas J. Giblin introduced an order in the house of representatives yesterday providing that an investigation of the dumping of garbage on the tide flats at Orient Heights be made with a view of abolishing the custom.

The order recites that in spite of the state-wide movement to "swat-the-fly" in the sanitary movement, the dumping of garbage on the tide flats at Orient Heights is a constant menace to the health of the city of Boston up Chelsea creek and scows and at the dumping grounds it is rehandled and then left on the mud flats.

"Millions and millions of house flies are hatched on this filth heap every day in the summer months," Representative Giblin told the committee on rules yesterday, "and there is a small epidemic of diphtheria and other diseases in Orient Heights in consequence."

Representative Giblin also said that the stench from the garbage dump made life almost unbearable for residents of the northern part of East Boston when the wind came from certain directions.

INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL PROGRESSING

Sun Reporter Makes a Tour of the Departments—Arrangements
for Public Exhibitions

All the departments of the Lowell Industrial school present a scene of unusual animation at the present time as the schools are to close on June 20th and will not re-open until Sept. 1st. The pupils, therefore, are busy in the various departments finishing up the work already begun, and getting ready for the exhibitions which are to be given in the boys' schools on Friday and Saturday of next week, June 20th and 21st. On June 20, the boys will be seen at work in their various occupations, and on Saturday the rooms will be open to the public with such specimens of work as have not been taken home by the pupils, whose property it usually is, or those things which have been made according to outside orders and applied to their ultimate use.

In the girls' school on Common street where sewing, cooking, design and academic studies are taught, there will be an exhibition open to the public on the afternoon and evening of Wednesday, June 19th. Ice cream and cake made by the girls themselves will be served at 10 cents a plate. The girls' graduation will take place in the high school hall on Monday evening, June 24th. Prominent speakers are expected to explain the cooperation of the state in the work of the industrial school, but most of the exercises will be carried out by the pupils. The girls are now making the dresses in which they are to graduate.
Mr. Fisher, principal of the school is particularly anxious that those who wish to enter any of the departments next season should lose no time in registering. A great many have done so already, and it is desirable that practically all intending pupils should do so without further delay, so that he can make suitable arrangements in advance. The courses include: Carpentry, machine shop, draughting, electrical course, automobile repairing, and the incidental academic course of Eng-

THE INCOME TAX

One of the best speeches ever made in support of the income tax was made in the house recently by Hon. Clyde B. Tavenner of Illinois, a democrat who is attaining a national reputation for energy and brilliancy. Not only did he praise the principle of the new tax in general, and illustrate its justice by individual concrete examples, but he gave tables showing its revenue in detail, and the amount of the tax on the incomes of such men as Andrew Carnegie, John D. Rockefeller, and others whose names are identified with superabundant wealth.

In opening, Mr. Tavenner dwelt on the fairness of the bill as being its most characteristic feature. Of this he says: "Not only the poor man from whose bending back some of the burden of taxation is to be lifted by means of this bill, favors the measure, I am in a position to say that many fair-minded men of wealth residing in my own district, men who will be required to pay a considerable tax on their incomes by virtue of the income-tax provision of this bill, have written me in most favorable tone of the measure, declaring that the proposition that a man should be taxed according to his ability to pay and according to the benefits and privileges he receives under the government is fair and just."

He says also that the income tax clause is not the work of men who are acting from a prejudice of wealth. "Any man who has honestly acquired wealth shows but an evidence of his industry, intelligence, and skill, and deserves the respect of all." But those who possess more should pay more, and it is time that the load of an unjust proportionate share of the national maintenance should be lifted from shoulders that are not able to sustain it. It is a part of the democratic plan to reduce the cost of living, and as such is fittingly levied on those able to pay while exempting the smaller incomes of those already overburdened by the ordinary expenses of existence.

Answering some of the objections made to the income tax, Mr. Tavenner said: "To tax wealth and incomes, according to the standarders and protectionists, is class legislation. The fact is, however, that the present system of taxing the necessities of life while permitting wealth to go untaxed is class legislation of the grossest sort. It is not passing strange that those who complain of an income tax as class legislation were never heard to complain of the existing class legislation which taxes the hats, coats and shirts of the masses about 71 per cent, while not requiring men like Rockefeller, Carnegie, and other millionaires to pay a single penny of taxation to the national government." A little further on he says: "Practically the entire expenses of the government are met with funds raised by taxing the things the people eat, wear, and use."

That the income tax is neither premature, experimental, or socialistic, is strongly expressed by Representative Tavenner, who points out that 52 nations and states have already adopted it, and that "the United States is practically the only one of the great nations of the earth in which wealth is permitted to go untaxed, as far as the general government is concerned." He wound up by declaring: "I do not believe it is just that the men who own 50 per cent. of the wealth of this country should bear but 10 per cent. of the burden of taxation. If members agree with me that such a condition is unjust, then I submit the income tax is a move in the right direction to remedy it."

IRISH HOME RULE

For the second time the Irish Home Rule bill has passed the house of commons by an overwhelming vote, and goes before the lords, there to be again discarded in the upper house. The unionists and the Ulster minority which is opposed to the measure have made their usual fiery speeches. Sir Edward Carson, the male counterpart of the militant suffragette, has notified England that he will take full responsibility for the truly terrible resistance that will be made by those he represents, and Lord Charles Berkeford declared that he personally will take the field against Ireland, England, and the world if necessary. But the parliament house withstood the portents of disaster, and the far-minded men of the British empire are with the liberals in their support of the Irish measure.

In view of such threats John Redmond showed wonderful composure in expressing the opinion "that 24 counties are not likely to be intimidated by four," especially when the majority of these four are in sympathy with the 24. As the bill would become law automatically on its third passage despite the fury of the lords, the hope of the unionist opposition will be centered on the destruction of the ministry. The situation is not without danger to the ministry as the unionists are making the most of the Marconi scandal implicating Chancellor George as connected with a questionable transaction. The Irish unionist members have declared their intention of making no further opposition in the commons, but intend to tear the entire country striving to stir up opposition against home rule. This campaign will have to be met by the Irish forces regardless of expense. In view of these facts it is difficult to foretell the result accurately, but the victorious passage of the Home Rule bill to its present stage is an augury for the triumph of a long and brave struggle in which have figured the names of men who stand and still stand for all that is best in patriotism and devotion to a cause.

POISONS

Since the recent widely advertised death of a wealthy banker of Macomb, who took some headache tablets in mistake for headache tablets, there have been many examples of similar fatalities, due to mistakes in taking medicines in almost every instance. The most recent example is the death of a man in Woonsocket, R. I., whose daughter gave him a half teaspoonful of oxalic acid, thinking it some stomach preparation.

It is amazing that there should be such a widespread carelessness with regard to deadly poisons. In almost every house there is some form of a medicine chest or closet, and not infrequently poisonous and non-poisonous substances repose side by side. It is the rarest thing in the world to take the wrong bottle, vial or package, and the wonder is that such deaths are not even more numerous. When the mistake is realized it is too late oftentimes for anything but regret, and it is well for many that carelessness is not considered a criminal offense.

If poisons are kept in the house they ought to be plainly marked, and if possible they ought to be in some special form of bottle or package so that people who take them in the dark could readily recognize them. When children are in the house such poisons ought to be kept out of reach, for unfortunate childish curiosity has been the cause of many fatalities with white arsenic. There is a movement on foot to compel manufacturers and druggists to have poisons in packages of some peculiar form or color, but all precautionary measures are useless unless a greater degree of care is exercised in the home.

A MURDERER EXTRADITED

The supreme court has given a just and wise decision in the case of Porter Charlton, the self-confessed murderer, who has fought his extradition to Italy for three years. He is to be tried for the murder of his wife whose body was found in Lake Como after his disappearance. Having wealth at his command, he has successfully raised technical objections to the request of the Italian government up to the present, but all the arts of dalliance are exhausted, and he must at last face the consequences of his terrible crime in a foreign land.

Murder is murder, whether committed in Italy or America, and it is a reflection on our court procedure that one who has wealth enough to set legal machinery in motion should obstruct the designs of a just law for three years. It does not matter in this regard that Italy refuses to send back her subjects who are wanted here for a breach of law. Two wrongs never yet made a right, and the murderer who hides behind a legal technicality is an example of an abuse that is far too prevalent. The revelations that followed the news of the murder showed that Charlton belonged to the type of which Harry Thaw is typical, and there can be little sympathy for him personally now that he is to face an Italian jury to answer to the crime of wife-murder.

THE JURY BRIBING CASE

It seems that the intended investigation of the charges made by a member of the jury in the recent dynamite trial, to the effect that he was approached and offered money and a bribe position if he voted as directed, is to be dropped, because it could not be traced to the defendants or their counsel. It is admitted that the jury was approached by "someone."

The charge of illegal tampering with juries is surely grave enough to justify an investigation, and it would seem only right that an effort should be made to find the "someone." As the jurymen who made the charge declared that he could identify the would-be briber, the difficulty of his apprehension is heightened, and there is no valid reason why the investigation should be dropped. The principle involved is a serious one, and is not at all affected by the fact apparently assumed that neither the defendants nor their counsel had anything to do with the attempt to bribe the jury. Why not "put this over" on Collins or Brown?

Conductor No. 2152 says he is all through giving advice. While riding on the roller coaster at Lakeside he advised his fellow riders to hold on tight, and he had scarce finished with the advice when he lost his own.

Following is a favorite story of Samuel J. Elder, president of the Boston City Club. "You still remember the gentleman who was returning from what used to be called a 'bustling' looking very much the worse for wear. He was asked what had happened. 'Why I was hit with a cowardly egg,' he said. 'How was it a cowardly egg?' asked his friend. 'Well, it no longer hit me than it did.'—Boston Traveler-Herald.

A writer in the New York American comments upon the habits of early settlers, who generally sprang up in the woods in their own buildings and generally the neighbors. The sunlit worshippers seldom exercise any care in opening and closing windows and doors or talking. Folks who used extra sleep or for any other reason do not care to get out of bed at daylight, are excessively annoyed by the restless actions of such restless people. Most of us who live in houses within hearing distance of other dwellings know how disagreeable it is to be kept out of sleep by the regular thump by hearing doors slam, windows crash or loud voices.

Lowell's Fourth of July celebration is up to the mayor and his Honor is looking for suggestions. Last year the mayor arranged for patriotic exercises at city hall as part of the day's observance. The feature was very favorably commented upon yet the attendance was very small. The mayor received several letters of congratulation from other municipalities as to the interesting exercises as a patriotic adjunct to a "safe and sane" observance of Independence Day. Do you think it worthy of repetition? Tell his Honor what you think about it.

Speaking of Joan of Arc—a writer in the Atlantic Monthly has pointed out that there was a time when Europe was ruled by suffragettes. It was in the middle of the 15th century when Catherine de Medici was queen of France, Marie de Lorraine was queen of Scotland, while her daughter and sole heir, Mary, afterward queen of Scots, was married ready to be seized by Mary Tudor was queen of England, and her half-sister, the Princess Elizabeth, afterward queen, was kept in a cage ready to be seized. This intrusion of powerful women in public affairs led John Knox to write a book which was published in Geneva in 1557, entitled "The First Blast of the Trumpet Against the Monstrous Regiment of Women." Poor John Knox! He did not like suffragettes. But who could blame him? He was the best thing in the way of a man that they had ever had in England.

There are great differences between the richness and poverty of words in the different countries," remarks Yoshio Markino, in the Atlantic Weekly. "Japanese is certainly richer in words than English. Just for an example, we have more than nine words for the word 'I.' The emperor alone calls himself 'Chin,' and all his subjects call themselves 'Waikushi,' 'Washi,' 'Ore,' 'Boku,' 'Sessha,' 'Sore,' 'Ware,' 'Yo,' etc., according to the circumstances. The second or third person changes. The first person changes. 'I' and all the verbs accordingly. When I started to learn the English, I asked my American teacher, 'What shall I call myself before the emperor?' He said 'I.' 'Then what shall I say before my parents?' 'I.' 'What shall I say before my men friends?' 'I.' 'And before my women friends?' 'I.' 'I was quite astonished and said, 'How simple, but how rude is the English language!'

Mayor Harrison of Chicago was being congratulated at a luncheon on his ordinance forbidding chauffers to blow their horns in the crowded business sections of the city. "They need only blow their horns and the pedestrian will leap out of the way. Let the chauffers drive with their right is supreme. 'Why, if something isn't soon done, the chauffers in the horns will be the pedestrians to learn and obey—a code something like this: 'One long and two short toots—' 'One long and two short toots—' 'Two toots—Dive over the car.' 'Three toots—Lie down calmly. It is too late to escape, but we will go over you as easily as possible if you keep very still.' 'One long and two short toots—'

SELF-DEPENDENCE
Wary of myself and sick of asking
What I am, and what I ought to be,
At this point I stand, which Lies me
Forward, forward, over the starlit sea.

And a look of passionate desire
Over the sea and to the stars I send;
Ye who from my childhood up have
Calmed me,
Chime to me, compose me to the Night.

"Ah, once more," I cried, "ye stars, ye stars,
On my heart your mighty charm renew:
Still, still let me, as I gaze upon you,
Feel my soul becoming vast like you."

From the intense, clear, star sown
Void of heaven,
Over the sea's unquiet way,
In the rustling night air came the answer:
"Wouldst thou be as these are? Live as they."

"Unfrighted by the silence round
them,
Undistracted by the alights they see,
These demand not that the things
without them
Yield them love, amusement, sympathy,
And with joy the stars perform their shining,
And the sea its long moon-silvered
rolls,
For self-noised they live, nor pine with nothing
All the fever of some differing soul."

"Bounded by themselves and unregard-ful
In what state God's other works may be,
In their own tasks all their powers pouring,
These attain the mighty life you see."

O air-born voice! long since severely clear,
I cry to thee in mine own heart I hear:
"Husky to be thyself, and know that he
Who binds himself loses his mastery."
—Matthew Arnold.

EDITORIAL COMMENT
The Allies
Fall River Globe: The allies who stood so loyally by each other in the war with Turkey and Austria, and in the recent struggle in the Balkans, are now in danger of losing some of the fruits of their hard won victory through quarrelling among themselves and racial prejudice. It is deplorable that such should be the fact. Meantime the great powers have like vultures over the scene ready to take advantage of any dissensions that may arise that will break the compact that has held these Balkan states together in the struggle in which they have been engaged, shoulder to shoulder, and utilize the opportunity for the gratification of their selfish aggrandizement.

A Good Move
Worcester Post: The personal suggestion of King Victor Emmanuel is taking steps to prevent criminals, and particularly dangerous ones, from bringing disaster upon their country by emigrating to the United States. To this end, and also to investigate the whereabouts of three notorious Italian gangsters who are believed to have fled to America, a high Italian police official is now visiting several of the principal eastern American cities.

Leaving School
Brooklyn Times: The United States bureau of education's findings in Worcester, where a majority of the girls who leave school so young do so because they want to, and not because they are forced to do so by parents, may be accepted as general conditions. Only 10 per cent of the girls had finished their courses in the grammar schools, and their reasons for leaving were that they disliked school, found it dull, disliked the teachers, or simply wanted to go to work.

IN SUCH PAIN WOMAN TORE HER CLOTHES
Testifies She Was Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Malone, N. Y., "Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has certainly done me a lot of good. I first heard of it when I was a girl and always said 'that if I ever had female trouble I would take it.' I suffered from organic inflammation and would have been in such pain that I would tear my clothes. One day my husband got the neighbors in to see what the matter was but they could not help me. My first thought was for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I sent my husband out for it and took it until I was entirely cured. I am a woman of perfect health and my health and happiness came from Lydia E. Pinkham's medicine. You may rest assured that I do all I can to recommend your wonderful medicine to my friends."—MRS. WOMEN TO CELEBRATE
Victory in Illinois—President Invited

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 12.—President Wilson, former Presidents Taft and Roosevelt and the governor of each state where equal suffrage prevails have been invited by telegraph to be present at a woman's jubilee to be held here Friday night to celebrate the passage of the bill yesterday granting limited suffrage to the women of Illinois. The women are going ahead with their plans for further enfranchisement. It was announced today. A constitutional convention is one of these and a number of schools of instruction is another.

The bill adopted yesterday gives as a measure of suffrage to women as the state constitution permits but without amendment of the constitution, while women may vote for presidential electors, mayors and aldermen and on all propositions submitted to the people they cannot vote for governor, or other state offices created by the state constitution.

Women Win in Illinois
SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 12.—The woman's suffrage bill, granting women the right to vote for all statutory offices in the state of Illinois, was passed by the house yesterday, by a vote of 83 yeas to 55 nays.

FOSS APPOINTS MATTHEWS
Ex-Mayor to Be Chairman of New Salem and Beverly Water Supply Board

BOSTON, June 12.—At yesterday's session of the executive council, ex-Mayor Nathan Matthews of Boston was appointed by Gov. Foss to be chairman of the recently authorized Salem and Beverly water supply board. The other members are the director of public works of Salem and the chairman of the Beverly water board. Only the chairman is to receive compensation, and this shall not exceed $3000 a year.

The success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, is unparalleled. It may be used with perfect confidence by women who suffer from displacements, inflammation, ulcerations, tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the standard remedy for female ills.

Senator Stillwell
New York Sun: There will be no complaint that Senator Stillwell's sentence is too severe. His offense was the attempt to sell his office and the law making power entrusted to him as a legislator. No mere fine, no short term of imprisonment, would have met the requirements of his case. We count it a most fortunate circumstance that Stillwell's sentence was pronounced under the penal law in a court of justice. He is too precious a rag-bag to set off with more explosion from the senate or to be allowed to escape by resigning. In every detail his fate has been such as to please honest men of all parties, wherever they may live.

DESLOVERS FOUND GUILTY
Of Killing and Decapitating Mrs. Parmentier

PROVIDENCE, R. I., June 12.—A verdict of guilty of murder was returned by a jury last night against Henri Deslovers, charged with having killed and decapitated Mrs. Angele Parmentier in Woonsocket on June 4 last year.

The jury was out eight and a half hours. Deslovers, who is unable to understand English, was unwavering when he was led to his cell and the decision of the jury was, although the proceedings were interpreted by him. When he was visited afterward by his counsel and told that he had been convicted he seemed surprised.

"Did they say I was guilty?" he asked. "What's the matter with those fellows?"

There is no second degree murder in the state. The jurors were given the case at 11 o'clock yesterday morning. The first word that came from them was at 7:30 last night, when they rapped at the door and declared they had arrived at a verdict. An hour later the court convened and the case will be appealed by Counsel John F. Fitzgerald and Eugene L. Jaibert.

HAVE YOU GOT IT?
The Voting Fever Grasps Many—Get in

The great library contest will introduce many new things into the enterprising stores where votes are issued, and this increase of trade will grow and grow day by day, until the last day, when there will be a perfect avalanche of buyers eager to make every dime and every dollar count in the final struggle for their favorites. This is one of the objects of this great educational movement, and if you want to be in the "swing" just get the voting habit; make every dime, dollar and ten dollar purchase develop votes for your favorite by studiously referring to the "we issue votes" card in the store windows, and within you will find a merchant presenting many bargains.

This contest will come dangerously near to politics before it is over, but purged of all appeal and personal prejudices, the higher and nobler instincts are brought into play here. The products of the brains of the illustrious men and women of all the past centuries are arrayed in beautiful books in the "swing" just get the voting habit; make every dime, dollar and ten dollar purchase develop votes for your favorite by studiously referring to the "we issue votes" card in the store windows, and within you will find a merchant presenting many bargains.

There's lots of sentiment in any proposition which disseminates literature, but this one as well possesses the commercial side. This beautiful library is to be awarded to the contestant receiving the largest number of votes. One vote is given with each ten cent purchase by about forty of Lowell's merchants. It will require the largest number of votes to secure the beautiful prizes. Therefore, it will be necessary for you to get your friends to trade with the contest merchants, and the earlier the campaign is begun the more likely will success crown your efforts.

Every voter should end the day by securing the coupon in The Sun for you will have to do this or the other fellow will have the advantage.

LOWELL LOST TO PORTLAND

Duffy's Tossers Banged May-bohm Hard—Game a Batting Fest—Score 11 to 10

Although the general atmospheric conditions favored the national game yesterday, nevertheless the presence of a circus in town was the means of keeping many fans away from Squamish park. They figured that they couldn't see a baseball game most any old time but a circus only once or twice a year. The attendance at the Lowell-Portland clash numbered about 500.

Maybohm climbed the mound to serve the Portland hitters while Jewell was in the box for the visitors. Owing to the absence of Hamilton, Maybohm took the first rack as far as during the past two or three days with Daly behind the bat.

First Inning
Burns was passed. Merrill hit to Anderson who fell down in trying to field the ball. Merrill safe, and Burns went to second. Bowcock was out. Daly to Monahan and both runners advanced. Hickman out. Miller to Monahan. Burns scored on the play. Pumphrey walked. On the first ball pitched he started for second and drew a throw by Daly to Anderson on which Merrill scored. Anderson threw to the plate to catch Merrill and both men were safe. Riley out. Miller to Monahan. Miller making a fine one-hand stop.

Clemens out. Hickman to Monahan. DeGroot was passed, and then stole second. Riley caught Miller's fly in right field and DeGroot advanced to third. Magee walked. He stole second. With two strikes and three balls called on him, Monahan put up a high one yard in front of the plate. Jewell and Maybohm both started for the ball. It hit Maybohm's glove and Monahan was safe. DeGroot scored. Monahan stole second. Daly singled to left, center scoring Magee and Monahan. He continued to second when Merrill handled the ball poorly. Dee fled out to Riley.

Second Inning
Merrill hit to Anderson. DeGroot walked. Jewell was passed. Maybohm stole second and on Daly's pitch the runner went to third. Burns fled out to DeGroot.

Third Inning
Merrill fled out to Anderson. DeGroot hit Bowcock at first. Hickman hit safely through shortstop. Anderson was out of position and did not field Pumphrey's grounder. The runner was safe at first. Hickman took a big lead off second, and when Daly threw to Anderson, scored for third. Pumphrey stole second. Riley hit to Anderson who threw over Monahan's head to the first base bleachers. Hickman and Pumphrey both scoring. Monahan fled out to Clemens.

Fourth Inning
Hayden was passed. Jewell laid down a bunt to Maybohm, who threw to Anderson at second for a force-out, but the throw was high and Anderson dropped the ball, both men were safe. Burns sacrificed along going out. DeGroot to Monahan. Maybohm stole second and Hayden scored. Bowcock hit to left field, scoring Jewell. Hickman hit to right, scoring Merrill. Pumphrey was safe on a fielder's choice. Hickman going out, Anderson to Miller. Riley hit to center field, scoring Bowcock. He was out on a throw to Miller, when Monahan hit to Anderson, out.

Fifth Inning
Hayden walked. Jewell bunted along the first base line and Monahan dropped Maybohm's throw. Hayden going to second. Burns bunted to Maybohm and

GREAT ACTION PICTURES OF AMERICA'S BIG VICTORY OVER ENGLAND IN FIRST POLO GAME

CAPT. CHEAPE SCORING ENGLAND'S FIRST GOAL

THE BATTLEFIELD GAME IN PROGRESS

MILBURN BEATING RITSON TO THE BALL

These exciting incidents in the first game of the international polo match between America and England at Westbury, N. Y., were witnessed by 30,000 persons. Similar scenes were expected to be enacted at the second game on June 14, when the two teams met again. Upon the outcome of that contest depended the necessity of playing a third game, as the championship is decided in the best two out of three games. The upper and lower action pictures are very striking and show just why polo is one of the most exciting of sports. At top Captain Cheape of the English team is beating Captain Ritson to the ball near the side of the field. Notice the action of the ponies in both pictures.

DIAMOND DAZZLES
Although Beaver has shown no signs of class as yet the fans are forced to admire the nifty way in which he handles himself. He made an attempt on Tuesday to stop a vicious liner which was intended to go over his head. He is staying on now in the hope that he will be used in an out of town game soon.

The most conscientious umpire on the circuit is Rudderham. This decision-maker may make his mistakes, and has his bad days, but he tries to give each player the decision as he sees it. We do not think that Rudderham would make a wrong decision, knowingly, even if his job depended upon it.

Brockton has a good baseball club this year, and why they are not farther up in the race is a mystery. Anderson, Wood and Shears are all good slappers and with Rutledge and Dunn as backstops the Shoe Makers have a well-rounded team. Down at second is one of the fastest infielders in the league.

Hugh Duffy made quite a shakeup in his team yesterday. Monahan at first did not show any signs of particular class although he is not as heavy and slow as Slattery. Also he did not hit with near the certainty that Portland's former first sacker always showed. Riley in right field does not look to be in Feltin's class at all when it comes to all around work.

Now that Portland has released Yelle, it wouldn't be a bad idea for Lowell to give him a try out. If the error column is going to continue to loom up as large as the last few days perhaps Manager Gray could use this player to advantage.

LOCAL SCHOOLBOYS WIN WINS MOTOR BOAT RACE

Lowell Defeats Nashua The Dream, Smallest High 6 to 1 Craft Finishes First

Lowell high was returned the winner in their game yesterday with the baseball team of Nashua High by the score of 6 to 1. The game was played in the New Hampshire city and was fast and exciting throughout.

Nashua started the scoring, bringing their lone run across the plate in the second inning. This was the only inning in which Sturtevant did not have perfect control of the situation, his delivery being touched up for only three safe hits, all of which were singles.

Lowell scored two runs in the third on two clean hits, a hit batsman and Flinders' lead error at third base. Lowell added two more runs in the eighth inning. Cawley drew down a pass and stole second on the first ball pitched. Hart got a hit, Cawley going to third. Hart went to second on the throw in to catch Cawley. Gill hammered the sphere to center field for two bases, scoring both men.

The ninth inning also produced a couple of tallies for Lowell. Edwards was given a free ticket and went to third when Hadley had a passed ball chalked up against him. Bailey hit to short. Hart was on his way to third and the play was too fast for the Nashua infielders to attempt. Bailey was safe at first. Cawley hammered one to third which the latter could not handle and Edwards scored. Bailey, who had stolen second, went to third on the error. On Ryan's fumble of Hart's grounder, Bailey scored.

The game, from a Lowell viewpoint, was a very good one. One error was all that the local schoolboys were guilty of, and their base running and judgment showed a great improvement over their last exhibition. Cawley had a great day in the field, accepting nice hard chances without a slip. Carter and Bailey also played a good game for Lowell, while Gill's hitting was very timely. The score:

CHARLESTON, S. C., June 12.—Nothing further has been heard here of the steamer Olinda, which was expected to put in here this morning for salvage of the burning cargo. The vessel reported last night as being the Olinda proved to be another ship. The investigation among shipping men here is that the Olinda has proceeded on her voyage.

5 HUB SPORTS ARRESTED
Police Stop Baseball Gambling

BOSTON, June 12.—Five men known country-wide in sporting circles were arrested on Boston common yesterday afternoon, in front of the baseball bulletins, and taken to the Langrange street station, where they were booked as "idle and disorderly persons."

The police declare they are determined to put an end to the baseball gambling, said to have become a practice on the common. It is a part of the crusade which resulted in gamblers being ejected from the ball grounds.

The arrest of the five men taken yesterday caused great excitement. Hundreds of men in the crowd pressed about the officers, who were in plain clothes, and until it was discovered they were police, a fight seemed imminent.

The men arrested as "idle and disorderly" produced huge rolls of bills. They were paid watches and sported diamonds on their fingers.

Kid Williams Won Bout
BALTIMORE, June 12.—Kid Williams of Baltimore last night knocked out Jim Kendrick of England in the sixth round of a scheduled 15-round bout. Williams had all the better of the contest and put his opponent down for the count with a blow to the stomach.

HAMILTON, Bermuda, June 12.—According to unofficial computations the Dream, the smallest of the contestants, owned by Charles A. Lagen of the Yachtmen's club, is the winner of the motorboat race from Philadelphia to Bermuda, the Barbara II is second and the Tezcan, third.

The Dream crossed the line at five minutes to five o'clock last evening, 13 hours, 29 minutes and 45 seconds after the arrival of the Barbara II. The scratch boat, and thus with her time allowance of 15 hours, 41 minutes and 25 seconds, had three hours, 14 minutes and 55 seconds to spare.

The Barbara II was the biggest of the contestants, being 31 feet in length, whereas the Dream measured only 19 feet and the Tezcan 15 feet.

The Dream was also the winner of the races last year.

Merrimack Square Theatre
An exceptionally clever array of talent which is intermingled with a series of absolutely the newest and best photo-plays obtainable is to be seen this week at the Merrimack Square theatre. The vaudeville includes four acts which cannot fail to please and is headed by The Operatic Band, then comes Eddie Foley, Bunny Gray and Roland Traversa while the moving picture plays which were changed today are all interesting and contain a new Pathe Weekly. Next week moving pictures of Lowell will be among the attractions.

The Kestrel
Dancing on the bare floor in the good old days was exclusively enjoyable, and one cannot blame the older people for harking back to the times when all hands turned out for wholesome pleasure at rural haunts. But think of the advantages of the present generation! The Kestrel on Thursday hill represents all that is modern in the enjoyment of the terpsichore.
